
Contents

Erin McGlothlin and Avinoam Patt

Introduction: Global Perspectives, National Narratives,
Local Contexts

I. Wartime History

Natalie Eppelsheimer

Some Had a Farm in Africa: Holocaust
Survivors as Settler-Colonists in Kenya

Daniela Gleizer

Refugees from Nazism and Holocaust Survivors in Mexico: Closed Doors and Contested Memories

Elysa Ivie McConnell

Building the Nation at the Periphery: Fascism, Italianization, and Racial Persecution in Italy's Eastern Borderlands

Jason Tingler

A Vortex of Violence: Chełm at the Crossroads of Genocide and Mass Murder

Idit Gil

Ethics and Friendship in KZ Hesselental:
Josek Giser's Diary and His Survival Efforts

II. Literature and Testimony from the Postwar to the Contemporary

Ariane Santerre

Transgressive Testimonies: French Survivors' Early Writings on the Holocaust

Naya Lekht

Literary Monuments: Commemorating the Holocaust in the Soviet Union

Jonathan Druker

Monstrous Births and Mad Scientists: Allegories of Holocaust Trauma in Primo Levi's Natural Histories

Joanna Krongold

"Too Much Precedent": Holocaust Allegory in Suzanne Collins's Underland Chronicles

III. Museums and Memorials

Anja Ballis

Tour Guide Meets Tourist: Local and Global Perspectives of Guided Tours at European Concentration Camp Memorial Sites

Sarah Kleinmann

The Museum Representation of National Socialist Perpetrators in Germany and Austria

Laurie A. Stein

The State of Provenance Research in Museums: Evaluating Global and National Approaches and Responses

Anna Duensing

"We Should Have Had a Nuremberg after the Civil War": Understanding the Specter of Nazism in the Battle over Confederate Monuments

Dan Leopard and Noah Shenker, with image-texts by Otto M.

Pinchas-DiT: Simulation and the Imagined Future of Holocaust Survivor Memory

Notes on Contributors